But just in case I had some glitchy videos for you: Here are some of the things I had to fix in the.rar file: * A few of the videos didn't work. And the ".LPC" and the ".LPI" files weren't working. * A couple of the sounds in the.mp3 files weren't working. So I had to fix those too. I will be uploading this fix later on today. So, hopefully it will

That way, you can finally banish that unsightly acne scarring that plagues so many teenage girls (and grown women, for that matter). We asked dermatologists and acne experts to tell us the best acne-fighting remedies, and they're sure to put a smile on your face. 1. Eat like a bird. If you want to avoid breakouts, eat a balanced diet, with lots of protein, fiber and omega-3 fatty acids. Your skin's barrier will be better protected, and you'll see fewer clogged pores. 2. Reduce stress. Stress can make your skin appear red and swollen and lead to breakouts, says Dr. Kapoor. If you can't change your job or your environment, treat stress with regular, moderate exercise or a quiet moment alone to reflect. 3. Get sleep. Sleep promotes the production of hormones and stimulates skin cells to produce new skin tissue. When you sleep, your body's defense system is also working hard, cleansing the pores and reducing acne. 4. Brush up. Pick up a good brush and make sure you're using it every day, or at least at least once a week, to keep pores clear. If your skin gets congested, you can gently exfoliate with a natural scrub like cornmeal and salt, or a glycolic acid solution. You can also try a simple homemade exfoliator made of baking soda and water. 5. Switch to mineral makeup. A study at the University of Southern California showed that people with acne had levels of zinc and selenium in their skin that were "significantly lower than non-acne-prone individuals," and mineral makeup products can provide both. 6. Make time for more... well, spa time. Getting spa treatments like microdermabrasion, facials or dermal peels can help slough away dead skin and reveal brighter, smoother skin. Many spas offer a program that combines skin care and body treatments, so you can really pam 2d92ce491b
