

and how you can help. To help protect the integrity of the U.S. Copyright Office's registration records, registration records (including documents on registrations and applications) are accessible only in an official Reading Room of the U.S. Copyright Office. The U.S. Copyright Office has designated three (3) reading rooms for copyright registrations. The U.S. Copyright Office has not designated any particular Reading Room for the registration of the works of architects and engineers. Registration is generally not needed to protect the copyright of architects and engineers. Also, registration does not provide any additional protection of the copyright in architects and engineers' works. The U.S. Copyright Office is responsible for the maintenance of the registration records and has designated three (3) Reading Rooms for the viewing of the records (Document ID Number: R2261809). Records will be retrieved from one of these Reading Rooms and delivered to the requesting entity via Federal Express, U.S. Postal Service, or a private carrier. All records may be viewed at any of the three Reading Rooms. Records may also be retrieved from the Reading Rooms at times of maximum use (from Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.). Please be advised that there is no telephone access to the U.S. Copyright Office Reading Rooms. There is no U.S. Postal service delivery to Reading Rooms. The U.S. Copyright Office has also designated three (3) Reading Rooms for the viewing of the records (Document ID Number: R2044403). U.S. Copyright Office Reading Rooms.
