DoF Calc Crack + Free [Win/Mac] [April-2022]

• Shows a "graphical" display of your results. • It is based on true AOS Software version of DoF. • Can be used on Mac OS X, Windows XP or Vista • It can be used as a standalone application or it can be used with your AOS Camera Library • The export of your values can be made with a very nice interface that can be used to export CSV file or an HTML table. • It allows you to export your values as a HTML table or as a CSV. • It can also display graphic details of your calculated values, like the one on this screenshot (the difference between maximal distance and minimal distance in the picture). • It also supports "Auto-calculating" your DoF value, you can do it either on the fly (i.e. as you view your scene or photos) or you can do it once and for all. • It can be used with only one or several camera. • It has a very simple use-interface

Features of DoF Calc:

- View all your data in a "Graphical" way.
- It can either show a "table" of your results or a "graphical" display.
- It also allows you to export your data into a CSV file (Exported as a CSV file) or in an HTML table.
- It also allows you to view "all" your data and/or "all" the data for a specific camera (view by camera).
- It can display a "graphical" display of your data (line graph, bar graph, pie graph, etc...)
- It can show you details of your DoF values like maximal and minimal values (and their distance from your camera in the picture).
- It allows you to "Auto-calculate" your DoF value (the value of the maximal and minimal values of your scene).
- It allows you to compare your calculated DoF values with the value given by AOS.
- It can store and save all your data in one location and allows you to share this information with others (or edit / save it / compare it to another value).
- It can also be used to export directly your DoF Calculation results into an Apple PageMaker document.
- It can be used as a standalone application or as a plug-in for AOS Camera Library (not yet released).
- It has a very simple use interface.
